Folice seconds on a quiet breast.

O white, as notes of all the pleasant days.

Os white, as notes of all the pleasant days.

The stappy cours, the bymas of hely praise.

The dreams of two and youth, that round you Do they not make each sighing, trembling

All its musicians gono beyond recall. The beautiful, the loved, where are ther all ! lach_lobi_lis_secrets, bouched its keys and wires
To thoughts of many colors and desires,
With whisp'ring fingers.
All are silent new, the farnwell said.
The last song sung, the last tear saidy shed;
Yet love has given it many dreams to keep
In this lone recom where only shadows creep
And silence lingers.

The old plane answers to my call.

And from my thaves jets the lost notes fall.

O, sout that I have leved with Heaven's birth

Will than not keep the memory of curth,

Its similes and sighs!

Mischievous Malaria.

To say that malaria is interdirectly is to put it very mildly. It is all that and more. It is combined described treacherous, say, and underhanded. It does its work in the dark, and in such a sly way that much of the mis-chief is done before it is discovered. It saps the foundation of a licality system. It soles the blood of he tital ity, acmoralizes the liver, confounds

the stomach, and makes the victim wish he were in his grave. It is sad to see people sit down in their misery, content to be the victims of mischievous malaria, and thinking that nothing can be done for them. The House of BROWN'S IRON BUTTERS over the ply broved that there is no reason why anybody who can procure a bottle of this Prince of Tonics shall
